

Universitat de les
Illes Balears

Departament d'Economia
Aplicada

Double Degree

The Master in Tourism and Environmental Economics at the University of the Balearic Islands is integrated in a Double Degree Programme with the Master in Tourism Economics and Regional Development at the University of Algarve

Students that conclude the Master in Tourism and Environmental Economics can obtain the degree of Master in Tourism Economics and Regional Development by spending a semester at the University of Algarve and approving in the following courses.

Course	ECTS
Regional Development Economics	5
Regional Analysis Methods	5
Regional Innovation Systems and Policy	5
Social Geography and Spatial Location	5
Tourism and Sustainability	5
Planning and Management of Tourism Projects	5
Dissertation	33
TOTAL	63

→ SEE: <http://www.fe.ualg.pt/sitefeualg2/mestrados.php?id=5>

Students that conclude the Master in Tourism Economics and Regional Development can obtain the degree of Master in Tourism and Environmental Economics by spending a semester at the University the Balearic Islands and approving in the following courses.

Course	ECTS
Environmental Economics	3
Methodologies of Environmental Valuation	4
Project Assessment	4
Environmental Policy Tools	4
Transport Economics	2
Tourism in Developing Countries	2
Seminars	1
End of Master Project	10
TOTAL	30